ALL ABOUT VACCINES

Bharat Biotech International Limited [BBL]

BBL is an Indian multinational company engaged in life science research, development, manufacturing and commercialization of vaccines. It is headquartered in Hyderabad, India, and has facilities in Bengaluru, Mumbai, Pune, and Kozhikode. It was founded in 1984.

VACCINE
A vaccine is a biological preparation that provides active acquired immunity to a particular infectious disease. It consists of agent that resembles a disease causing microbe and it forms a small, dead or inactivated source of the microbe, it studies on the body's immune system.

TYPES OF COVID-19 VACCINES

PROTEIN SUBUNIT	NUCLEIC ACID	VECTORS	WHOLE VIRUS
These vaccinations are made from proteins that are derived from the virus. These proteins stimulate the immune system to recognize the virus.	These vaccinations use genetic material from the virus, such as mRNA or DNA, which is introduced into the body to stimulate an immune response.	These vaccinations use modified viruses that cannot cause disease but can still stimulate an immune response.	These vaccinations contain whole viruses that have been inactivated or weakened so they cannot cause disease but can still stimulate an immune response.

Students of grade X prepared the posters about types of vaccines, steps involved in the preparation of vaccines and about various companies preparing vaccines. This study broadened the scope for higher level of researches.
